which must be generated by nuclear power plants, coal-burning power generators or hydro dams. He briefly described the operation of a nuclear power plant and suggested that the radioactive "heavy" water was very dangerous and can be hard to dispose of or store.

Teacher N. Bailey also reported that the class reviewed the use of single-use bottled water and its environment impact. Ethan and Matthew said their class was not in favour of this because the plastic bottles fill up the landsite very fast and do not break down for many years.
